“The actual goal of experimenting is to somehow make the examined phenomena speak”
(Hans-Jörg Rheinberger)

“With ist concepts, Philosophy brings forth events.
Art erects monuments with its sensations.
Science constructs states of affairs with its functions”
(Gilles Deleuze)

The Science-Art-Philosophy Laboratory (SAP Lab) of the Center for Philosophy of Sciences of the University of Lisbon (CFCUL) has the honor of inviting you to the opening of the exhibition “Empty Space of the Unknown / Nothing Is Right Now” from the artist Katrin von Lehmann. The exhibition is the end result of an artistic residency of Katrin von Lehmann at SAP Lab, which included a series of conversations between the artist and a small group of researchers from Science and Philosophy, which met at FCUL, a once a week in a total of 5 sessions, around a fundamental theme: the creative processes and the experimentation practices in Science. Based on these encounters, Katrin von Lehmann thus continues her project (Part 3) which consists of a research on drawing using the artistic method of experimentation.

The artist has a long history of working with scientists, having held residencies in Germany (Lindenberg Meteorological Observatory 2009, and Max-Planck-Institute of History of Science, Berlin 2012, 2013), Norway (Geophysical Institute Bergen 2014, 2015 and Max-Planck-Institute of Molecular Genetics 2012-2016) and also in Portugal (University of the Azores, Department of Oceanography and Fisheries 2018).

The opening of the exhibition will take place on Thursday, November 7, at 17:00, at the Science Gallery, in the building of the Library of the Faculty of Sciences of the University of Lisbon, with free admission.

We would be very glad to count on you in this interdisciplinary adventure that aims to understand a little more the possible relations between Art and Science.
